

Improve your listening skills

TedEd is a great website with a lot of short videos. You can learn things about many different topics and by watching them you will improve your listening skills. Go to TEDEd by clicking on the following link:

https://ed.ted.com/lessons?direction=desc&sort=featured-position&user_by_click=student

Find 3 videos that you are interested in and watch them. You can sort them by subjects or just browse through the selection. After watching the videos you can answer the questions in the think section or join the discussion by posting your opinion. You can find the think and discuss section on the right side of each video like in the example below.

The screenshot shows the TED Ed website interface. At the top left is the TED Ed logo. To the right, there are links for "register or sign in". Below the logo is a navigation bar with "Discover", "Create", and "Support" options, and a search icon. The main content area features a video player for "EINSTEIN'S TWIN PARADOX EXPLAINED" by Amber Stuver. The video player includes a play button, a "Später ans..." (Save for later) button, and a "TED Ed" logo. Below the video player, there are four interactive options: "Watch", "Think", "Dig Deeper", and "Discuss". At the bottom of these options is a "Customize This Lesson" button and a speech bubble icon containing the number "79". Below these options, there is a small text prompt: "Create and share a new lesson based on this one."
